Throughout history there have been two categories of people — those who create wealth and those who consume it. This century has given rise to a new category of people whose passion is to control the wealth others take the trouble to create. To consume or control wealth needs little qualification. To create wealth is a different proposition.

This year InterVarsity Press has taken a gigantic leap from their old position in order to publish The Creation of Wealth by Brian Griffiths. Rather than blaming capitalist materialism and consumption for world poverty, Griffiths examines the creation of wealth, in other words the creation of things of economic value to people.

The creation of wealth is based on knowledge -- the ability to take raw inputs and convert them into output with value greater than the sum of the individual parts. Additionally, this value is determined by correctly assessing the demand for the output -- how it will satisfy needs and wants.

Wealth can be created through work and new ideas. Companies aim to create wealth and so do you when you join one. In a company your work is averaged with that of others so it obscures your actual contribution.

~~On The Creation Of Wealth~~

Deepstash

All wealth and resources belong to God, because he is the Creator and owner of the universe. Any resources that come our way are to be used for his purpose and the advance of his kingdom. If God gives us material wealth, we are not to treasure it and let it lead our hearts away from our devotion to Christ.

According to Beinhocker, wealth creation is the product of a simple but profoundly powerful evolutionary formula: differentiate, select, and amplify. In this view, the economy is a "complex adaptive system" in which physical technologies, social technologies, and business designs continuously interact to create novel products, new ideas, and increasing wealth.

Wealth creation is commonly understood to be an exercise in investing. Have a look at the figure below. The conventional thinking is to save part of your monthly salary in a pension fund/401k over a long period of time so that when you retire one day you have something to live on. One can see that investing is planning for the future.
